

Tim Dantas

Dsi/Id

2/11/2026

Right People.
Right Place.
Right Expectations.

Table of Contents

|                                      |    |
|--------------------------------------|----|
| Introduction to the R3 Online Report | 3  |
| Your Personalized Graphs             | 4  |
| Behavioral Styles                    | 5  |
| Pace and Priority of Each Style      | 6  |
| A Deeper Look at the Four R3         | 7  |
| Communicating with the R3            | 8  |
| Your Behavior and Needs Under Stress | 10 |
| Potential Areas for Improvement      | 11 |
| General Characteristics              | 12 |
| Communication Tips for Others        | 13 |
| Your Motivations: Wants and Needs    | 14 |
| What You Bring to the Organization   | 15 |

Why is Independently Tested Accuracy of this Assessment Important?

A recent review revealed a significant majority of assessments available today were absent the studies & reporting to confirm their accuracy. Of the small minority which claimed reporting, the significant majority of those were conducted privately; oftentimes by the assessment provider itself, rather than an objective and scientifically qualified third party. However, we are leading by example in this otherwise unregulated industry. How are we doing this? By submitting our assessments to an objective, independently conducted battery of tests: Construct Validity, Reliability, and Disparate Impact - all by a qualified scientific authority (Assessment Standards Institute). Our goal? Ensuring the trust and confidence of our users by producing the industry's most accurate and class protected assessments. Please turn to the last page of this report to learn more on this topic, and the steps we've taken to safeguard the scientific accuracy of this assessment.

Welcome to the R3 Online Report

Introduction

This R3 Profile Report and your individual results provide a universal framework for understanding human behavior. Being familiar with the framework enables you to better comprehend yourself and those around you, such as family, colleagues, and friends. Gaining insight into the four core energies helps enhance communication skills, prevent or mitigate conflicts, appreciate the diversity in others, and positively impact one's environment.

In everyday life, you can witness core energies at play as you interact with each energy type to varying extents. As you consider your family, friends, and colleagues, you'll see a range of personalities emerge.

Both historical and modern research have identified numerous models for understanding behavioral variations, with a common theme of categorizing behavior into four fundamental types. These core energies are: Driver, Influencer, Stabilizer, and Analyzer.

No single style is considered superior to others, as each one has its own strengths and areas for growth and development. The R3 Profile Report focuses on revealing externally observable behaviors and gauges tendencies through directness and openness levels exhibited by each style.

Individuals with similar behavioral patterns tend to display distinct characteristics associated with their respective group, yet everyone possesses a mix of these four styles while displaying different intensities. The key is understanding which intensities you spend the majority of your time within and how to leverage the ones you spend the least time within.

Once you master the four core energies and are able to navigate your self-awareness of how you automatically think and respond, you can begin tailoring your communication to those around you with the intention of creating a dynamic interaction that results in both parties feeling heard and understood.

The four core energies are:

- Drivers - this core energy is focused on being decisive, straightforward, and results-oriented. They speak assertively, candidly, and with determination. Sometimes known as the person who "gets things done."
- Influencers - this core energy thrives on being excellent communicators and welcoming to all. They are sociable, amicable, and chatty. Sometimes known as the "life of the party."
- Stabilizers - this core energy values being an attentive listener and exceptional team player. They provide their environment with consistency, loyalty, and pragmatic decisions. Sometimes known as the person who "feels safe and secure."
- Analyzers - this core energy is driven by being detail-oriented, meticulous, and analytical. They tend to be exact, perceptive, and methodical. Sometimes known as "the details person."

Your Personalized Graphs

Your Public Style indicates you tend to use the behavioral traits of the Dsi style(s) in the focus area you had in mind when completing the assessment. Your Private Style indicates that you naturally tend to use the behavioral traits of the Id style(s).

Your Public Style is your graph displayed on the left. It is your perception of the behavioral tendencies you think you should use in your current environment, situation, or relationship. This graph may change when you change roles or circumstances. The graph on the right is your Private Style and indicates the intensity of your instinctive behaviors and motivators. It is often a better indicator of the “real you” and your “knee jerk,” instinctive behaviors. This is how you act when you feel comfortable in your home environment and are not attempting to impress. It is also what shows up in stressful situations. This graph tends to be fairly consistent, even in different environments.

Public Style

Private Style

Behavioral Styles

Historical and contemporary research reveal more than a dozen various models of our behavioral differences, but many share one common thread: the grouping of behavior into four basic categories.

The R3 styles are Driver, Influencer, Stabilizer, and Analyzer. There is no “best” style. Each style has its unique strengths and opportunities for continuing improvement and growth.

The R3 assessment examines external and easily observable behaviors and measures tendencies using scales of directness and openness that each style exhibits.

Behavior Descriptors of Each

| DRIVER           | INFLUENCER   | STABILIZER    | ANALYZER    |
|------------------|--------------|---------------|-------------|
| Decisive         | Charming     | Understanding | Accurate    |
| Competitive      | Confident    | Friendly      | Precise     |
| Daring           | Convincing   | Good Listener | Analytical  |
| Direct           | Enthusiastic | Patient       | Compliant   |
| Innovative       | Inspiring    | Relaxed       | Courteous   |
| Persistent       | Optimistic   | Sincere       | Diplomatic  |
| Adventurous      | Persuasive   | Stable        | Detailed    |
| Problem-Solver   | Sociable     | Steady        | Fact-Finder |
| Results-Oriented | Trusting     | Team Player   | Objective   |

Directness & Openness of Each Style

| STYLE      | TENDENCIES                       |
|------------|----------------------------------|
| DRIVER     | Tends to be direct and guarded   |
| INFLUENCER | Tends to be direct and open      |
| STABILIZER | Tends to be indirect and open    |
| ANALYZER   | Tends to be indirect and guarded |

Pace & Priority of Each Style

| STYLE      | TENDENCIES                     |
|------------|--------------------------------|
| DRIVER     | Fast-paced and task-oriented   |
| INFLUENCER | Fast-paced and people-oriented |
| STABILIZER | Slow-paced and people-oriented |
| ANALYZER   | Slow-paced and task-oriented   |

Pace and Priority of Each Style

PACE AND PRIORITY represent two of the main sources of tension between the styles.

- D&A and I&S have different PACES: D and I are faster-paced, and S and A are slower-paced.
- D&I and S&A have different PRIORITIES: D and A are task-oriented, and I and S are people oriented.
- D&S and I&A have BOTH PACE AND PRIORITY DIFFERENCES.

A Deeper Look at the Four R3 Styles

Below is a chart to help you understand some of the characteristics of each of the Four Basic R3 Styles, so you can interact with each style more effectively. Although behavioral style is only a partial description of personality, it is quite useful in describing how a person behaves, and is perceived, in personal, social and work situations.

|                                     | HIGH DRIVER STYLE               | HIGH INFLUENCER STYLE                | HIGH STABILIZER STYLE                | HIGH ANALYZER STYLE                              |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|
| Tends to Act                 | Assertive                       | Persuasive                           | Supportive                           | Analytical                                       |
| When in Conflict, this Style | Demands                         | Attacks                              | Complies                             | Avoids                                           |
| Needs                        | Control                         | Approval                             | Routine                              | Standards                                        |
| Primary Drive                | Independence                    | Interaction                          | Stability                            | Correctness                                      |
| Preferred Tasks              | Challenging                     | People related                       | Scheduled                            | Structured                                       |
| Comfortable with             | Being decisive                  | Social friendliness                  | Being part of a team                 | Order and planning                               |
| Personal Strength            | Problem-solver                  | Encourager                           | Supporter                            | Organizer                                        |
| Strength Overextended        | Preoccupation-goals over people | Speaking without thinking            | Procrastination in addressing change | Overanalyzing everything                         |
| Personal Limitation          | Too direct and intense          | Too disorganized and nontraditional  | Too indecisive and indirect          | Too detailed and impersonal                      |
| Personal Wants               | Control, Variety                | Approval, Less Structure             | Routine, Harmony                     | Standards, Logic                                 |
| Personal Fear                | Losing                          | Rejection                            | Sudden Change                        | Being Wrong                                      |
| Blind Spots                  | Being held accountable          | Follow through on commitments        | Embracing need for change            | Struggle to make decisions without overanalyzing |
| Needs to Work on             | Empathy, Patience               | Controlling emotions, Follow through | Being assertive when pressured       | Worrying less about everything                   |
| Measuring Maturity           | Giving up control               | Objectively handling rejection       | Standing up for self when confronted | Not being defensive when criticized              |
| Under Stress May Become      | Dictatorial, Critical           | Sarcastic, Superficial               | Submissive, Indecisive               | Withdrawn, Headstrong                            |
| Measures Worth by            | Impact or results, Track record | Acknowledgments, Compliments         | Compatibility, Contributions         | Precision, Accuracy, Quality of results          |

Communicating with the R3

Communicating with the DRIVER Style

| D CHARACTERISTICS:             | SO YOU SHOULD...                                                                                                   |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Concerned with being #1               | Show them how to win, new opportunities                                                                                   |
| Think logically                       | Display reasoning                                                                                                         |
| Want facts and highlights             | Provide concise data                                                                                                      |
| Strive for results                    | Agree on goal and boundaries, the support or get out of their way                                                         |
| Like personal choices                 | Allow them to “do their thing,” within limits                                                                             |
| Like changes                          | Vary routine                                                                                                              |
| Prefer to delegate                    | Look for opportunities to modify their workload focus                                                                     |
| Want others to notice accomplishments | Compliment them on what they’ve done                                                                                      |
| Need to be in charge                  | Let them take the lead, when appropriate, but give them parameters                                                        |
| Tendency towards conflict             | If necessary, argue with conviction on points of disagreement, backed up with facts; don’t argue on a “personality” basis |

Communicating with the INFLUENCER Style

| I CHARACTERISTICS:               | SO YOU SHOULD...                                                                |
|-----------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Concerned with approval and appearances | Show them that you admire and like them                                                |
| Seek enthusiastic people and situations | Behave optimistically and provide upbeat setting                                       |
| Think emotionally                       | Support their feelings when possible                                                   |
| Want to know the general expectations   | Avoid involved details, focus on the “big picture”                                     |
| Need involvement and people contact     | Interact and participate with them                                                     |
| Like changes and innovations            | Vary the routine; avoid requiring long-term repetition by them                         |
| Want others to notice THEM              | Compliment them personally and often                                                   |
| Often need help getting organized       | Do it together                                                                         |
| Look for action and stimulation         | Keep up a fast, lively, pace                                                           |
| Surround themselves with optimism       | Support their ideas and don’t poke holes in their dreams; show them your positive side |
| Want feedback that they “look good”     | Mention their accomplishments, progress and your other genuine appreciation            |

Communicating with the STABILIZER Style

| S CHARACTERISTICS:                               | SO YOU SHOULD...                                                                        |
|--------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Concerned with stability                         | Show how your idea minimizes risk                                                       |
| Think logically                                  | Show reasoning                                                                          |
| Want documentation and facts                     | Provide data and proof                                                                  |
| Like personal involvement                        | Demonstrate your interest in them                                                       |
| Need to know step-by-step sequence               | Provide outline and/or one-two-three instructions as you personally “walk them through” |
| Want others to notice their patient perseverance | Compliment them for their steady follow-through                                         |
| Avoid risks and changes                          | Give them personal assurances                                                           |
| Dislike conflict                                 | Act non-aggressively, focus on common interest or needed support                        |
| Accommodate others                               | Allow them to provide service or support for others                                     |
| Look for calmness and peace                      | Provide a relaxing, friendly atmosphere                                                 |
| Enjoy teamwork                                   | Provide them with a cooperative group                                                   |
| Want sincere feedback that they’re appreciated   | Acknowledge their easygoing manner and helpful efforts, when appropriate                |

Communicating with the ANALYZER Style

| A CHARACTERISTICS:                   | SO YOU SHOULD...                                                                                          |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Concerned with aggressive approaches | Approach them in an indirect, non threatening way                                                         |
| Think logically                      | Show your reasoning                                                                                       |
| Seek data                            | Give data to them in writing                                                                              |
| Need to know the process             | Provide explanations and rationale                                                                        |
| Utilize caution                      | Allow them to think, inquire and check before they make decisions                                         |
| Prefer to do things themselves       | When delegating, let them check procedures, and other progress and performance before they make decisions |
| Want others to notice their accuracy | Compliment them on their thoroughness and correctness when appropriate                                    |
| Gravitate toward quality control     | Let them assess and be involved in the process when possible                                              |
| Avoid conflict                       | Tactfully ask for clarification and assistance you may need                                               |
| Need to be right                     | Allow them time to find the best or “correct” answer, within available limits                             |
| Like to contemplate                  | Tell them “why” and “how”                                                                                 |

The I Style

Under Stress - Perceptions, Behavior and Needs for the I

Stress is unavoidable. The perceptions of our behavior may have a significant impact on our effectiveness - both in how we perceive ourselves and how others perceive us. The way we behave under stress can create a perception that is not what we intend. The descriptions below of perceptions by others may seem somewhat extreme at times (especially if our behavior is an over-extended strength that becomes a weakness or limitation). As you understand these perceptions more clearly, you are able to modify your behavior to maximize your own effectiveness and ensure that others see you as you intend.

Potential Self Perception: Under Stress, May be Perceived by Others:

- |                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Poised and persuasive</li> <li>• Friendly</li> <li>• Enthusiastic</li> <li>• Easy to talk to</li> </ul> | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Wants own way without considering others</li> <li>• Too self-promoting</li> <li>• Sometimes too pushy on own ideas</li> <li>• Ignores the rules</li> </ul> |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

Under Stress You Need:

- A quick pace for stimulation and excitement
- To get credit
- Prestige

Your Typical Behaviors in Conflict:

- You may experience a desire to get even if someone thwarts a major component of your personal agenda; however, you are not very likely to follow through. You may choose to overlook the matter in order to preserve the relationship or you may simply lash out in anger.
- You are quite uncomfortable with conflict, aggression and anger. You do whatever you can do to avoid them. If possible, you may physically avoid an environment filled with conflict or anger. If that is not possible, you will probably seek to use your natural humor and story-telling ability to reduce the level of tension. If neither approach works, you may attempt to ignore the conflict. Given your strong focus on relationships, however, this tactic is rarely successful.
- When you experience a moment of misery, you may appear overeager, impulsive, sarcastic and demanding. You may disregard the facts, and may not listen well to what is being said (only hearing what you want to hear).

Strategies to Reduce Conflict and Increase Harmony:

- Recognize that you can never resolve conflict by avoiding it. While you may be concerned that you will damage a relationship while expressing your needs or clarifying your expectations, respectfully dealing with issues will allow you to leave them behind you. Be sure, of course, to listen attentively to their concerns and respond appropriately.
- Take time to clarify the commitments and expectations of others. Do not make any assumptions about what others will do. Always get a specific commitment.
- You have a tendency to "think out loud." Others may take these "brainstorming" ideas as actual commitments and become upset when those "commitments" are not completed. So, let others know in advance when you are only exploring ideas and options and not committing to actions.

Potential Areas for Improvement

Everyone has struggles, limitations, or weaknesses. Oftentimes, it's simply an overextension of our strengths which may become a weakness. For example, the directness of a High D may be a strength in certain environments, but when overextended they may tend to become bossy.

As you consider ways to continue to improve to be a better communicator, we recommend you focus on no more than two at a time, practice and strengthen them, and then choose another area to focus on and improve.

Potential Areas for Improvement:

- You are sometimes inattentive to details and may need support in this area.
- You may sometimes act impulsively, favoring emotion over facts.
- You could be more effective in large groups by being more firm in delegating tasks and setting deadlines.
- You may be somewhat disorganized behind the scenes, despite maintaining an organized public presence.
- You may tend to be a selective listener, hearing only what you want to hear.
- You may have difficulty disciplining others, or bearing bad news.
- Your natural optimism may yield a tendency to over-forecast the success of a project.

General Characteristics

The narration below serves as a general overview of your behavioral tendencies. It sets the stage for the report which follows, and provides a framework for understanding and reflecting on your results.

We've occasionally provided some coaching ideas so that you can leverage your strengths whenever possible to maximize your personal success.

You are able to persuade others with a personal and friendly approach. This is a great strength because others are more likely to follow your lead when they don't feel pressured into a situation. They sense that your enthusiasm and your interest in them are genuine. You sell people on ideas (and usually manage to get them on board) because of your confidence, your flexibility, your sense of urgency, and your friendly approach.

Tim, your response pattern to the instrument shows that you tend to seek freedom from routine, control, and minutiae. That is, you prefer a change-oriented environment in which you are empowered to make your own decisions. Your work may suffer on projects with a lot of controls and paperwork, or even mundane things like expense forms.

You score like those who tend to evaluate others by their ability to express themselves verbally. You evaluate others using the same yardstick with which you measure yourself. You may find yourself bored at a conference session where the presenter reads a speech to the audience. In the next session, you may become actively engaged when the presenter speaks with the audience in an extemporaneous way, since that's the way you may prefer to do it yourself. Just remember that people who may not be as fluent or verbally skilled as you may still have ideas that are of value to the team.

You convey a high level of trust when working with others. This is a strength. People will trust you because they get the sense that you trust them. That's good; however, you will experience situations in which you may get "burned" by trusting someone, when that trust is betrayed. Typically, those who score like you tend not to let those events get them down. They simply become more cautious around certain people. By continuing to set the example of trusting others, you help to establish a positive climate of trust.

Your enthusiasm and openness to alternatives allow you to influence others. You score like those who come to a project with some ideas of their own, but also keep an open mind to listen to the ideas of others. When a solution is decided upon, you have the skills to enlist others in an enthusiastic manner and get them on board. Your flexibility to adapt to new approaches, or to unexpected changes, is an asset to the team, as others will look to you for leadership.

Tim, you appreciate flexibility and spontaneity in others, and also may fear limitations on your own flexibility or spontaneity. People who score like you say that their creativity comes alive when they are given freedom to perform a task in creative ways. Conversely, their creativity goes into hibernation when they are presented with rules, regulations, forms, and requests for justification on each phase of a project. We suggest seeking assignments that have few strings attached, in order to keep your internal motivation at the highest level.

You score like those who seek assignments with frequent interpersonal contact that allow them to maintain an image of authority. Your responses indicate that you have natural "people skills" and enthusiasm. Combined with a moderate-to-high sense of urgency, you tend to thrive in an environment that provides you an audience (large or small) with whom to share your ideas and enthusiasm. People who score like you will always choose assignments involving people over assignments involving solitary work.

With fluent verbal skills, you are able to gain the support of various kinds of people. Those who score like you are prepared at a moment's notice to speak at length on almost any topic (even a topic that they know very little about). Your sense of confidence makes others confident. Your sense of urgency helps others get into gear. Your sense of humor is able to break some tension with the twist of a word or a quip, and get people back on board.

Communication Tips for Others

The following suggestions can help others who interact with you understand and be aware of your communication preferences. To use this information effectively, share it with others and also discuss their preferences.

Check the two most important ideas when others communicate with you (dos & don'ts) and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

When Communicating with Tim, DO:

- Give Tim the opportunity to express opinions and make some of the decisions.
- Try to be engaging, stimulating, and fast-paced.
- Plan some extra time in your schedule for talking, relating, and socializing.
- Be certain to specify steps for continuing action.
- Be specific about what's needed, and who is going to do it.
- Do your homework and be prepared with goals, objectives, support materials, etc., but don't plan on using all of them. Have the material with you as support.
- Provide testimonials from people Tim sees as important and prominent.

When Communicating with Tim, DON'T:

- Leave decisions hanging in the air. Be certain all decision points have reached closure and result in plans for action.
- Ask rhetorical or useless questions.
- Be overly task-oriented.
- Speculate wildly without factual support.
- Make decisions for Tim.
- Confuse or distract Tim from the business issues at hand.
- Let the discussion with Tim get caught in dreams too much, otherwise you'll lose time.

Your Motivators: Wants and Needs

Motivation is the enthusiasm or willingness to do something. Everybody is motivated; however, all people are motivated for their own reasons, not somebody else's. Simply, people are motivated by what they want.

Our behaviors are also driven by our needs. Each style has different needs. If one person is stressed, they may need quiet time alone; another may need social time around a lot of people. Each has different ways to meet their needs. The more fully our needs are met, the easier it is to perform at an optimal level.

Choose the two most important wants and the two most important needs and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

You Tend to Be Motivated By:

- A strong, visible group or organization to identify with.
- A trusted support team to assist with detail work and follow-through.
- Freedom to express your ideas to interested listeners.
- A variety of activities involving people, both on and off the job.
- Interesting activities outside of the work environment. Some with similar scores like to be involved in volunteer and community activities.
- Opportunities to learn, grow, and advance at a rapid pace.
- Recognition for your contributions to the success of a project.

People With Patterns Like You Tend to Need:

- Support work with some of the details, especially when the organization is under pressure.
- To feel valued as a team member in order to work at top effectiveness.
- Increased organizational skills to reduce the potential for clutter and confusion.
- Opportunities for involvement with a wide scope of people.
- Better control of body language and personal space. Some people don't like grand gestures or physical contact.
- To know the results that are expected of you, and to be judged on the results, rather than on the methods used to achieve them.
- Some independence and flexibility in work projects, activities, and schedules.

What You Bring to the Organization

This page provides useful insights for a job or as you work together on a team or family project. These are the talents and tendencies you bring. When used in environments that you are most effective in, you are likely to be self-motivated to accomplish great things. It is possible that you may not always be in an environment that allows you to be your best. We recommend you speak with your leader to see what can be incorporated into your current environment to help maintain your motivation. Check the two most important strengths, the two most important work style tendencies and the two most important environmental factors and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

Your Strengths:

- You understand people very well and rely on that understanding to lead, persuade, and motivate.
- You're a self-starter, and an active agent in everything you do.
- You have the potential to be an engaging presenter.
- You are able to react and adapt quickly to change in projects or activities.
- You have a strong sense of urgency to get things done expediently.
- You're able to sell others on a variety of ideas and concepts.
- You are very much at ease in making presentations to both large or small groups.

Your Work Style Tendencies:

- You tend to evaluate others on the job by their ability to express themselves verbally.
- You approach projects and express ideas with enthusiasm.
- You are persuasive with customers and peers due to your personal and friendly approach.
- When pressured on the job, you may become more persuadable and less firm in your opinions.
- On the job, you seek assignments requiring your specific knowledge or authority.
- You are able to maintain a positive public image through a variety of assignments.
- You seek freedom from routine, control, and minutiae.

You Tend to Be Most Effective In Environments That Provide:

- Ability to see rapid results from your efforts.
- Public recognition of your accomplishments.
- A wide scope of involvement with a variety of people.
- A freedom to travel around the organization or around the country.
- Opportunities to try new ideas.
- Challenging assignments.
- Encouragement to talk about projects and issues openly with peers and managers.